

Master's Thesis

Performance and Secrecy in Identification codes

During the course of this project the student will study the implementation of identification codes aiming at improving their performance in comparison to existing codes and transmission and will study the implementation of security functions that can implement information-theoretic semantic security in identification codes.

Advisors

Roberto Ferrara